

Ultimate Glove
“The Ultimate Glove” (or whatever)
as appeared in ISHN “FDO”
January 2006
By George J. Hayward

Over my 33 years of being in this wonderful safety industry, I've been through quite a few, and different, Research & Development departments.

Frankly, it is my impression that most, end up being, at best, Quality Control departments, not, R&D departments.

Over the years, a lingering thought has frequently crossed my mind..... enough sometimes, that I actually have asked, out loud, “What (&/or where) is The Ultimate Glove”? (or whatever, product). I even wrote about it briefly, in ISHN's “FDO”, January 1999. Which, I might add, got some very good feedback.

Actually, when you really think about something like, “the ultimate - anything”, you probably should go to the end and work back. What is it you're trying to accomplish in the end.... “The Ultimate whatever”?

When you plan a trip, you visualize the end location and work back. So it is here.....visualize the end, “The Ultimate Product, Service or Idea, and work back. Then, think and work toward that goal or objective.....visualize it, put it down.....then hang it up as a reminder, every day, what it is you are really, ultimately, striving for, professionally OR personally.

Originally this piece was being directed to QC and R&D upper management but, then after I, got into it, I realized, with a little help from my friends, it has much broader applications.

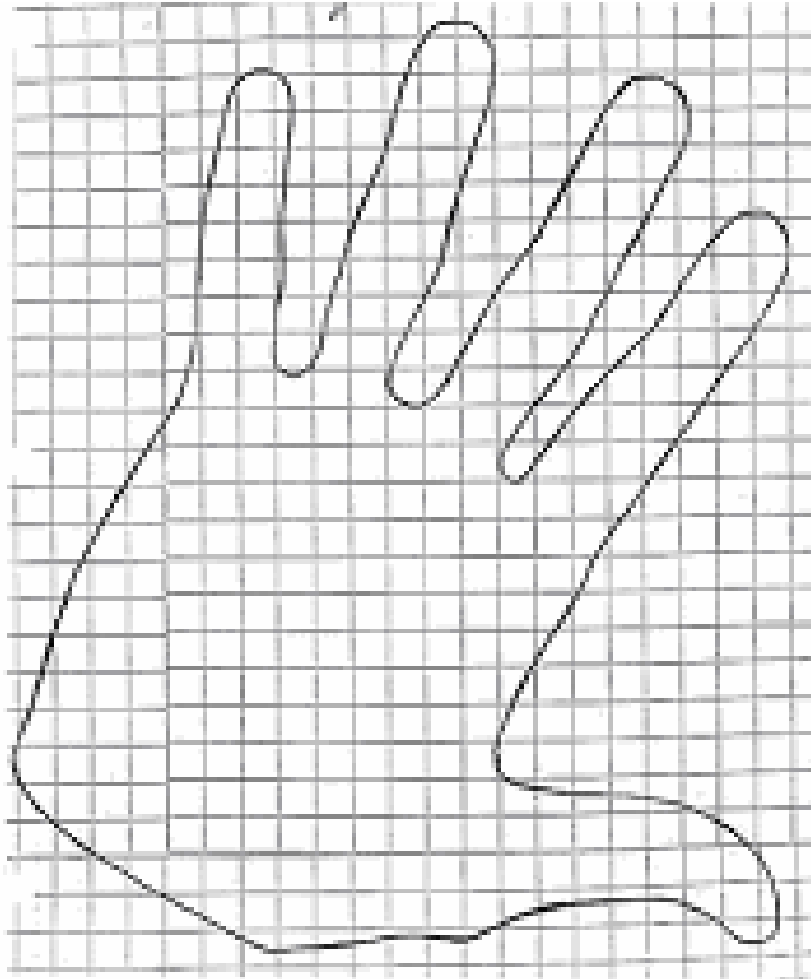

You decide what your “Ultimate whatever” is. Then, Go for it!

Anyway.....But, a Glove you say? Doesn't matter. Naw, that's just the symbol I used here, a beginning.... a beginning to get you thinking and reacting positively, selfishly, as to what your “Ultimate, whatever” is then display it, proudly, for all to see, your.....”Ultimate.....”!

If you can't come up with one at the moment, use this one, below...hang it up on your wall frame it (mine is) until you get yours. Or contact me I'll e-mail you this one 'suitable for framing'. (Free, to the first 1000 requests, or so).

So, NOW, I'm sharing my “Ultimate Glove” with hopes it stimulates you to identify and post your “Ultimate Whatever”.

Depicted here,
“The Ultimate Glove” in hand protection:

Pioneered technology, ergonomic, it offers the ultimate in chemical, heat, cold, cut, penetration, permeation, degradation, abrasion, puncture, tear & bio/radiation resistance. It features the engineered ultimate grip, fit, dexterity, tensile strength, one size, ambidextrous & extended shelf life. Domestic, it meets and exceeds all international standards and is non allergenic, breathable, easy donning/doffing, environmentally disposable, biodegradable, incinerateable, launderable, universally trademarkable, fully warranted, fully valued, forever in demand, comfortable AND full channel profitable. It is

“THE ULTIMATE GLOVE”!

(think about it every day.....make it - next!)

By George J. Hayward, United Sales Associates, October 2005